

Who We Are

About Us

Coastal Supported Living has been built on the heart, passion and commitment of Shuma Noor who is an inspirational leader from Southend-on-Sea.

Shuma believes all people can reach their full potential and live a happy and rewarding lives, irrespective of their disability, mental health, socio economic background or physical environments

We Are Different

Shuma works alongside her husband Ansar Noor who owns Coastal Estates. In March 2020 Ansar began working with Southend-on-Sea Borough Council and became a part of the coordinated approach to provide emergency housing for rough sleepers, who have mental health conditions and drug and alcohol dependency.

The aim of this project is to keep people safe whilst the Country tackles coronavirus. The Branch Hotel now houses over 20 rough sleepers and Shuma and her husband Ansar work closely alongside St Vincent De Paul Society to feed rough sleepers on a weekly basis.

Shuma recognised the impact that coronavirus had on vulnerable people and wanted to create a safe space for people with disabilities who are affected by coronavirus and struggle to maintain their own tenancies and live as independently as possible.

Coastal Supported Living provides a unique combination of transformative care, support and housing solutions for adults, this high quality supportive service and housing eliminates barriers that result in extended stays in institutional settings.

We Are Experts at What We Do

What Makes Us Different

- We understand that everyone is unique and this is reflected in everything we do
- We understand the variation of different needs and the complexity of independent living with support
- We have the facilities and the ability to adapt and build specialised, bespoke environments for people who are struggling to find a home that suits their specific needs
- Feedback is very important to us, so we involve everyone that associates with Coastal Supported Living to have their say so we can continuously improve our service
- We ensure our staff are trained to the highest possible standard, including specialised, person centred training that benefits our Service Users and their specific needs
- We are constantly reviewing and improving practices to ensure we provide a good quality service
- We have the most up to date technology to help manage all aspects of a persons support
- We don't just support individuals, we support couples, families and close friends to live together in a safe and secure home with the personalised support they need
